Pythianism Must not be Exposed.

(To the Editor of Interior Journal.)
The following amusing letter has been received at this office.

STANFORD, VA., Mar. 23.—I learn that Col. J. H. Powell, of Kentucky, is exposing Pythianism. I don't think the Knights ought to allow this to be done. It is a shame and an outrage. Secrecy is our strongest protection against fraud and imposition. It is absolutely essential to our very existence. You never hear of any smart Aleck giving away the Old Fellows, twisting the horns of the genial Elks, or divulging the tricks of the Masonic billy goat. Such audacious conduct would not be a good thing for his wholesome. Then, why should the Knights of Pythias be subjected to so great indignity. Why should the ups and downs of an Orient Prince be revealed. The man who attempts to expose us should be severely dealt with according to Oriental law, be he a Kentucky thoroughbred or one of the first families of Virginia. The Colonel is coming to our town to cut his capers. He won't do it though, not much.

A committee of 20 has been appointed to investigate the matter. Prof. Adler, who controls one of the largest henneries in this section, has kindly furnished us with a basket of eggs which his hens after long travail have failed to hatch. These eggs rattle when you shake 'em, and they smell when you break 'em. The odor thereof is not like unto the altar of Rome. They have been distributed among the members of the committee, brave and determined men who will be at the Opera House, not to present flowers that wither and die, but to present the more substantial hen fruit in such a striking manner as will make Col. P. yearn for his old Kentucky home, that land which boasts of the fastest horses, best whisky, prettiest women and ugliest men on the habitable globe. I am willing to bow my head even unto the dust of the earth and divide the last stitch of my clothing with a Knight of Pythias in distress, but I can not, will not permit insult to the Pythian knight-hood. By the Heavens above us, by the hills that seem eternal, I swear that the secrets of our Order must and shall be preserved. Yours Heroically,
CAPT. SAMUEL LEANDER JONES.

—Daniel Baugh, of Clark county, Ind., celebrated his 103rd birthday Sunday. Unlike most old men, he doesn't claim to have known the distinguished characters of the early times. He has always been temperate, but has never denied himself a drink when he wanted it, is fond of tobacco and can still dance a jig.

—An enterprising Marion county farmer, who believes there is something in a name, has christened his jack "Breckinridge," and the Harrodsburg Democrat suggests that Breckinridge be added to the vocabulary with Burking, Butlerizing, &c.

—An exchange speaks of an Indiana boy as tall he can't tell when his toes are cold. You all know the Augusta boy so slim he can't tell whether he has the backbone or what.—Augusta Reporter.

—Lawton A. Sherman, aged 93, and his wife, aged 97, observed last Saturday at Exeter, R. I., the 75th anniversary of their marriage. This week they buried their eldest daughter, aged 77.

—A Missouri judge sentenced two women to prison, one, being illiterate, till he learned to read, and the other till he taught the uneducated offender. Their imprisonment lasted three weeks.

—Judge J. Sonie Smith, of Lexington, Past Grand Master of the Kentucky Masons, denies the story of a movement to expel Congressman W. C. P. Breckinridge from that order.

—Col. Breckinridge brings to mind the Frenchman who said there was only one thing he could not resist—temptation.

—George S. Hubbard and Mrs. Abner Roberts, twins, celebrated their 51st birthday at Farmville, O., last week.

—Three murders were executed on the same scaffold at Paris, Texas, Friday.

The Richmond Register gets funny and shoots off the following: "There was an exciting local election at Stanford on Monday, and the 'drys' carried it by a majority of 24 in a vote of 1,026. Local option is a good thing in small towns like Stanford, Danville, Lancaster, Berea, Kingston, Kirksville, Bear Wallow, etc., but when it comes to a city like Richmond with a population of 6,000 and an annual revenue of $22,000, nothing but high license is worth a cent. With high license the city is able to employ a number one police force, order is strictly enforced, nobody is liable to be killed by drinking aconites instead of whisky at drug stores, 'blind tigers' have their fangs drawn, a splendid system of water works insures immunity from loss by fire, the council have plenty of funds to open streets, give coal to the poor, feed the hungry, yea, and throw money to the birds."

It will be an agreeable surprise to persons subject to attacks of bilious colic to learn that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In many instances the attack may be prevented by taking this remedy at once at the first symptoms of the disorder. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Dr. S. G. Hocker, Druggist, Stanford.

—Mrs. Kittie King is just back from the city with the nicest and handsomest line of spring millinery ever brought to this place. She thanks her customers for past favors and desires their further patronage. She also has the latest designs for dresses and trimmings.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—The Columbia Spectator says that Mr. Mc. Wheat, of Casey, and Miss Lula, daughter of Charles R. Page, were married in the Christian church there last week. Mr. Wheat is the leading merchant of Yosemite and an excellent and enterprising citizen. He was sheriff of Casey, but resigned on account of the new jury law. His bride is said to be a highly accomplished and lovable young lady. The I. J. sends congratulations and best wishes.

—CHANGE ON THE Q & C.—On Sunday April 1st, the spring schedules of passenger trains on the Queen & Crescent went into effect. The service has been carefully arranged with a view to the convenience of the public, and in order to handle spring and summer traffic in a manner most comfortably and promptly. The equipment of the Queen & Crescent is known everywhere for its elegance and convenience, and the new schedules are intended to increase its value to the traveler. Our better halves say they could not keep house without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is used in more than half the homes in Leeds. Since Bros., Leeds, Iowa. This shows the esteem in which that remedy is held where it has been sold for years and is well known. Mothers have learned that there is nothing so good for colds, croup and whooping cough, that it cures these ailments quickly and permanently, and that it is pleasant and safe for children to take. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Dr. S. G. Hocker, Druggist, Stanford.

—After reading the law in regard to sixth class towns, the board of trustees of London have decided to tender their resignations to the county judge on Monday, April 9, and all parties, who are interested in either a change or the retention of the old board have a right to present same to Judge Barnett.

Never Kiss and Tell.

The Tatler Column of the Louisville Times is edited by Miss Elvira Miller, a bright little woman whose apt and piquant comment on current matters, is so pointedly expressed, has this to say of a man who has placed himself below decent consideration by the fair sex.

The attention of the feminine delegation from Kentucky is now given to Rankin Rossel, who turned State's evidence on Miss Pollard and testified against her this week. If there is anything contemptible in poor, weak human nature, it is the man who kisses and tells, thereby exposing his own superlative greenness and moral meanness. There was nothing especially awful in his being engaged to a fascinating woman, and he would have been a chump devoid of any appreciation of the beauties of nature had he failed to take all the kisses he could have gotten. But is the telling about it all that causes the women to sing the Dooology over Rossel. A man of the world keeps such secrets to himself, and if called upon to testify in court he perjures himself like a gentleman and the Prince of Wales. Rossel has nothing to gain by this trial, and he has stepped down from the witness stand with his liabilities far in excess of his assets, so far as the opinion of all honorable men and women is concerned. To kiss a woman and then go and hill-post the fact is as bad as to go to a man's house, borrow a rope from him and then request him to come out and be hung.

How Much Rain Will Fall?

The Weekly Courier-Journal has struck a popular note in its weather guessing contests. A wonderful amount of interest was taken in the offer of $1,000 for the closest guesses to the coldest day and temperature during February, at Louisville, and much valuable information was gathered by subscribers on the subject. This contest has just been decided, there being 28 lucky guessers. The Weekly Courier-Journal now makes another offer on the same line. For the closest guesses to the amount of rain that will fall at Louisville during the month of May, the Weekly Courier-Journal will give $1,000. This money will be divided into 19 presents—one of $500, two of $100 each, two of $50 each, four of $25 each, and 10 of $10 each. Each guess must be accompanied by $1, to pay for one year's subscription to the Weekly Courier-Journal, the best democratic paper published. The rain fall is scientifically measured, to the hundredth part of an inch. The heaviest rain-fall in May during the past 20 years was seven inches and forty-six hundredths of an inch. The lightest was one inch even. The measurements are made by the Government officials of the Weather Bureau at Louisville. Sample copies of the paper with full particulars of the contest, will be sent free to any address. Write at once, as under no circumstances will any guesses be received after April 30th. Address Weekly Courier-Journal, Louisville, Ky.

Illinois and Wisconsin.

As every one knows, contain the most delightful summer resorts in the northwest, and they are best reached by the Wisconsin Central, which has been very aptly termed "the line of lakes." Particular attention has been paid to this class of travel, and every comfort and convenience of passengers looked after. There are good hotels at all these resorts which open about June 1st and afford very good accommodations at reasonable rates.

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers miss more than they presume. Jonathan Kenison, of Bolan, Worth county, Iowa, who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders, read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of Ft. Madison had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words: "It cured me right up." He also says: "A neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. Their boy was over to my house and said they were so bad he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me, he got a bottle and it cured them up in a week. 30 cent bottles for sale by Dr. S. G. Hocker, Druggist, Stanford.

—There will be work in the Master's degree at the Masonic lodge Monday evening.

—Mr. E. W. Morrow, the energetic jeweler has gone to New York to take a special course in fitting eye glasses.

—The several persons who joined the Christian church recently will be baptized in Dix river Thursday afternoon.

—Sheriff Robinson left this morning for the penitentiary with George Hullman, who goes up for eight years for attempted rape, and Simon Engleman, who got two years for breaking into a store.

—Mr. Henry Arnold died Sunday morning and will be buried this morning in the Lancaster cemetery. Funeral services will be held at the Christian church, conducted by Elder Gowan.

—Lancaster is on a boom in the way of secret organizations. The Masons meet on Monday evenings and have a large attendance; the Old Fellows hold forth on Tuesdays; the Knights of Honor have their meetings on Thursdays and the Knights of Pythias meet on Fridays. The last named order now has 100 members.

—The new town ordinances went into effect Sunday. Among them is a law prohibiting card playing of any kind in the public rooms of the hotels and livery stables; one against leaving horses standing on the streets unhitched and one requiring country people to pay a license to peddle produce or meat in town. The council repealed the law they made against giving a man a drink.

—Circuit court adjourned finally Saturday afternoon. The last days were occupied by the trial of a will case. Some of the heirs want the will of Mrs. Indiana Phillips set aside on the ground that she was not capable, mentally, to make one. There were three lawyers on a side and every inch of ground was hotly contested. The jury could not agree and were discharged. The Baker case, for the sale of the land near the depot was continued until next August term, as was also the Fain cases. The term was exceedingly "poor picking" financially for the attorneys.

—Mrs. W. E. Bradley entertained Saturday evening in honor of her guest, Miss Hattie Vaughan. Messrs. Jim Curry and Randolph Harris, of Louisville, are here visiting relatives. Mr. Graham Frank, of Lexington, visited friends here Sunday. Mrs. Lizzie Borders, of Point Burnside, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Geo. Denny. Miss Kate Kinnaird is in Danville this week. Miss Julia May Gaines entertained a few friends Saturday evening. Mr. Steve Teters, of Stanford, has accepted a position as trainer in Walker & Norris' livery stable. Mrs. W. A. Arnold is reported some better. Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hutchings, of Crab Orchard, are visiting Mrs. C. C. Stormes. Jim Toad West has gone on duty as U. S. store keeper and gauger in Laurel county.

—A late cable from London is to the effect that the bondholders of the Middleboro Water Company have put up $50,000 to complete the dam and reservoir and increase the capacity of their pump and stand pipe. This will give employment to 120 men, and will be a God-send to the unemployed.

—Thomas Donahue, an inmate of the Soldiers Home at Dayton, O., fatally stabbed Henry Smith, also an inmate, while the former was drunk. If the idlers had been out working for a living instead of living in luxury off of Uncle Sam, the tragedy would more than probably have never occurred.

—Misses Sarah and Linda Billings, of Winchester, O., aged 36 and 40 respectively were found dead in bed. A note explained that their death was from poison, self-administered. One of them was engaged to be married but the thought of separation from the sister was more than she could bear and they both chose death.

—A petition signed by 600 Breckinridge men in Oldham, Owen and Henry counties was forwarded to Col. Breckinridge demanding that he continue to fight his persecutors and make the race for Congress. The petition requests him to make his first speech in Owen county, and insists on his immediate return to Kentucky.

—As a result of two great snow slides on Canyon creek, in the Coen d'Alene mountains, Washington, three families, consisting of 12 or 14 persons, are mangled and bruised beneath thousands of tons of snow, and any possibility of any of them being rescued alive is out of the question. Snow had accumulated on the mountains to a depth of fully 60 feet, and the late rains caused the huge mass to move at several places.

EVERY FRIDAY.

COL. BRECKINRIDGE did go the witness stand and was there when the court adjourned Friday, until yesterday, having taken two days to tell his story, which was still incomplete. In silvery accents and mellifluous tones he told how Miss Pollard introduced herself to him on a railroad train. She wrote him to visit her, acknowledged to him that she had illicit relations with Rodes, proposed that they take an evening ride, made overtures to him in the carriage, and he, as he said, "being a man with a man's passions," yielded. She followed him to Lexington and made arrangements to have a meeting at Sarah Guesse's house. Everything in the matter was proposed or instigated by her, and he was the helpless victim of this designing woman of 17 years of age. He denied that he had ever promised to marry her, and, in fact, denied nearly everything else that Miss Pollard had sworn to, till exasperated beyond measure, she cried out, "Oh, can't be tell the truth about anything?" The colonel admitted that he told Mrs. Blackburn what is claimed, but it was with the understanding that she should go away and forever disappear from his life. She had gotten him completely under her influence and fearing exposure and disgrace, he submitted to nearly everything till life became unbearable. During the recital of his story "Willie" wore the air of a much abused man and it is said that three of the jury, at least, were led to believe that he was more sinned against than sinning. The defendant has got to undergo the ordeal of a rigid cross examination and much interest is felt as to whether he will be able to make things consist. The New York Herald, which was against him before his testimony was given, has changed its mind with reference to the case and now takes the part of the defendant. He and his lawyers may convince the jury, or some of it, that he is a poor, persecuted martyr to the wiles of a designing woman, but it is hardly probable.

The Winchester Democrat says that local option was carried by 204 in the Stanford precinct. Take out the naught and the figures will express the exact majority—24. In the three precincts that have voted on the question, Crab Orchard went 55 for local option, Stanford, 24 for it and Hustonville 9 against—or a majority of 70 in a vote of 2,265, leaving the Waynesburg precinct yet to vote on the question, which would certainly go for prohibition, say by 30 majority, giving local option 100 in the county. This is very close, entirely too close. The local optionist have it in their power to largely increase the sentiment in their behalf by a conservative course, making war on no man for opinion's sake, but by eternal vigilance and ceaseless war on the illegal liquor traffic show those who think to the contrary that prohibition does prohibit. Let us have done with criminalizations and re-criminalizations, and all work together for the enforcement of law and good order.

COL. BRECKINRIDGE is a professed christian, a Presbyterian of the straightest sect, yet there is one circumstance related in the Bible which he does not and can not believe. We refer to the action of Joseph when Mrs. Pottiphar attempted to lure him from the path of virtue by the light of her wanton eyes. If he was a man with like passions as ourselves it is rather a hard story to believe, but with the regenerated all things are possible. The colonel with a great deal of sanctimoniousness and professed piety wore the livery of heaven, while inwardly he was a raving wolf. Few alas, there be of us, who can throw stones at him, for the one act, but we can all with one accord execrate and denounce a man who uses religion as a cloak for his sins and desecrates the home circle and the pulpit the better to accomplish his ends. Of all of God's miserable creatures the hypocrite is the most contemptible.

We do not intend to apply the old saying that any fool can ask a question that a wise man can not answer, but we do say that these questions asked by the Louisville Times are pertinent to the present situation, if they may be regarded as impertinent in some quarters: If a Congress, democratic in both branches, can't pass a currency bill the president will sign, or a tariff bill that any but special interests can approve, and if a House, with a democratic majority of 80 odd, can't muster a quorum to give a member a seat to which he is clearly entitled, where is Congress at? What is it there for? And whether is the democratic party drifting to?

Two of the Congressmen of Maine, Reed and Bontelle, continue to make spectacles of themselves. They were on the rampage Saturday again, but Speaker Crisp cut Bontelle off by ignoring him and made the sergeant-at-arms seat the late czar. They were filibustering to prevent the consideration of the contested election cases.

HADERS is to play in South Carolina. The new dispensary law which prescribes the brand of whiskey that shall be used and provides that spies shall enter a man's house to search for contraband brands, has provoked any amount of internecine strife and many sanguinary conflicts. At Darlington two citizens and two spies were shot to death and the chief of police and two others wounded. The governor called out the militia but it refused to go a number of companies disbanding in preference to fight their friends in a cause they sympathized with. A dispatch says that the constables were driven out of the towns and pursued into the swamps by citizens' posses. Several dispensaries were destroyed. The governor issued a proclamation declaring Darlington and Florence counties in a state of insurrection, but the proclamation was laughed at. The South Carolina law is the most impracticable of the many passed under the guise of temperance reform and is so sumptuary and tyrannical in its operations that there is nothing left but the people to rebel.

LATER.—Gov. Tillman has succeeded in getting 12 companies of militia, numbering 230 men, to go to Darlington to suppress disorder and assist in the arrest of persons engaged in Friday's riot, but the people say he can not send a sufficient number of soldiers to search their houses. Two more of the spies have been found dead in the woods.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND vetoed the seigniorage bill, as it was stated he would do, and gives excellent reasons for his action. He disliked to act against the will of a majority of the members of Congress but duty impelled him to object to the bill becoming a law because it would unsettle the public confidence sought to be restored by the repeal of the Sherman bill, induce further withdrawals of gold from the treasury and delay the return of prosperity to the country. Many of the provisions of the bill are ambiguous, ill advised and dangerous, and would unnecessarily increase the perplexities of the secretary of the treasury. The message concludes with the hope that "a way will present itself in the near future for the adjustment of our monetary affairs in such a comprehensive and conservative manner as will afford to silver its proper place in our currency." Mr. Bland, the author of the bill, is out of temper over the veto and seems to feel as much hurt over the strictures on his English as the death of his pet scheme, and he boastfully says he will give the president a chance to exercise the rules of Lindley Murray in a free coinage bill.

Gov. NORTHEN, of Georgia, appointed Speaker Crisp to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of U. S. Senator Colquitt, greatly to the surprise of both Mr. Crisp and his friends. In addition to the appointment, the governor assured him that he would also support him for the long term, for which it had been understood that the governor was himself a candidate. Mr. Crisp took time to consider whether he will accept or not and finally decided that his presence was more needed in the House than in the Senate at present. The Speakership is a much more important position than a common, every day Senatorship.

The Harrodsburg Democrat, which has been disposed to oppose Gov. McCreary, falls into line with the rest of us and says: The Democrat cheerfully endorses his attitude in the present Congress on all important subjects of legislation and finds much gratification in the ability he has shown and practical success he has secured in the advocacy of various measures. He is an exceedingly useful man in Congress—useful to his constituents in the prosecution of their business and useful to his party in intelligent, painstaking efforts in its behalf.

HON. WALTER EVANS, who was appointed commissioner of internal revenue by President Garfield, but who has rarely been heard of since, emerges from his hole in the ground to say that he is a candidate for Congress in the Louisville district. Mr. Evans is not very popular with his party, if we are to judge by the answer given the president when he asked a distinguished Kentucky republican, how Evans' appointment was regarded. "If you had hunted the whole State over you could not have found a man so out of touch with his people."

Mrs. CUTBERT BULLITT, late Mrs. Ransom, who not long ago, made her octogenarian husband "absquatulate" and who has had much observation to know whereof she speaks, writes a letter to a newspaper to say that Col. Breckinridge is no worse than many other men, only that he has been found out. There is a good deal more truth than poetry in this. 'Tis true, 'tis pity, and pity 'tis true, that there are very few men even with marital vows on them, who live beyond reproach.

SENATOR STEWART, of Nevada, writes a card, declaring that he has shaken the republican party and is now a populist, thereby proving that the last end of some men continues to be worse than the first.

The Courier-Journal defines a nung-wump as a man too mean to be a democrat and not good enough to be a republican, a definition which Webster's Unabridged ought to adopt in its next edition.

The Kentucky building at the World's Fair, which cost $10,000, was sold for $250.

Strange Things

Have often been discussed. But the strangest thing is how we can afford to sell a ladies' Shoe for $1.25 that has been sold for $3. Such strange things as this we are doing with our entire stock of goods. We may be called April fools for it, but we realize that people will buy goods where they can be had the cheapest, and we are working for your trade in this way. And did it ever occur to you that merchants who sell on credit charge cash customers the same for goods that they do credit ones? We have no bad debts to make our customers pay for. The amount saved in this way is tremendous and you get the benefit of it if you deal with us. Our Spring

Clothing!

It is in and we are making our competitors tremble with the prices we are selling them at. Suits they sell at $15 we let go at $9, and such is the amount we will save you through our entire Clothing stock, which we have no hesitancy in saying is decidedly the largest and "The church bazaar is the farmer's grain, the bee moth spoils the honey, the bed bug kills him full of pain, and the humming scorpion in his money." But if he takes the papers, pays for and reads them through, he'll not get bumbled any more, as sure as shot, this is true.

A TRUSTY horse owned by J. K. Baughman, of the West End, and driven by his children to school ran away in Hustonville the other day. Little Katie and Henry Baughman who were in the buggy were thrown out, each sustaining injuries that will keep them in doors for several weeks.
THE Richmond Register points out several annoying typographical errors in this paper, all of which, singularly enough, were made by the printer who graduated from that office. If you would teach your men to set clean proof, gentlemen, it would save much profanity and you would have less chance to show what a close observer you are.
SHOT FROM ANNUUS.—Mat Burk, who shot at Bill Newcomb during his trial at Mt. Vernon for shooting and seriously wounding his wife, attempted to assassinate him Saturday, near Cummins Station. He fired at him from ambush with a rifle striking him in the arm. Newcomb returned the fire as Burk escaped in the timber and thinks he wounded him.
THE Rowland voting place having gone for whisky by a majority of 32, the school keepers there will contend that they have the right to license and will apply for them to the county court. They have engaged lawyers, who tell them that they can win. Should the county judge refuse to grant the licenses a mandamus will be applied for before the circuit judge.
WHILE Miss Etta Mouser was lighting a fire in a stove Friday morning her dress caught by some means and she was soon enveloped in flames. Her father, Mr. R. M. Mouser, was sick in bed but he called to her to come to him, when he threw a blanket around her and succeeded, after much difficulty, in extinguishing the blazing dress. The young lady escaped with but slight burns, but one of Mr. Mouser's hands was very seriously burned.
IN FOR IT.—Jim Evans, the negro bicyclist, was not satisfied with being an expert in that line, so he stole Mr. E. P. Woods' family mare and is now in hoc for it. Jim was beating his way back to Louisville on a freight train, but had to get off near Paxton's Summit. His story is that he walked along down the railroad after that and when he passed Mr. Woods' gate he saw the mare bridled and saddled. He decided without thinking about stealing her, that it was better to ride than to walk, so he accordingly bestrode her and rode her till he got nearly to Springfield, when he sold her for $5.50 to a man named Wheatley. Two men from Lebanon, who had regarded him as suspicious, followed him and when he sold the mare for so small a sum they knew that their suspicions were well founded. Evans was thereupon arrested and taken back to Lebanon and jailed. He telegraphed to Mr. Woods that he was in jail and to come and get him out, but the officer inserted "for horse stealing," the negro says, so Mr. Woods got Sheriff J. N. Menefee and they went down and got him out, only to put him in here. He will likely have an examining trial to-day and penitentiary doors seem to be standing ajar for him.

INTERESTING purchasers can find no larger variety of goods or lower prices than at Danks, the Jeweler.

We are leaders in hats. Over 800 sample hats just received. We have all the latest style and shapes in both soft and stiff and will sell at less than manufacturer's prices. This is your chance for a bargain. B. F. Jones & Son.
Mr. J. B. BENCH, "Red John," propounds this conundrum: "Why would Breckinridge make a good family horse?" The person sending us the correct answer by next issue can have this paper one year at the low price of $2.
Denise the prohibition excitement many foolish things were done and said on both sides, which are now the subject of regret. Let us all forgive and forget, and if prohibition is to prevail, present a solid front to see that the law is enforced.
NICHOLASVILLE tried to settle the postmaster contest by a primary election, but it failed to settle. Carroll and Smithers, the only two whose names were submitted—Kran neck, and neck and the committee, after trying to decide between them, referred the whole matter to the postmaster general.
JEDER CARSON died last night Hansford and Frank Drye $10 each and costs, making $14, for gaming on Sunday. Marshall Newland caught them playing craps in Mrs. Mattie Nevins' stable and lodged them in jail, from which Hansford had gotten out only the day before. They will work out the fines at $1 a day.

The Central Kentucky Medical Association will meet at Walton's Opera House, April 19th, and the Southeastern Association on the 20th. Dr. Price, of Philadelphia, one of the most eminent men in the profession, will read two papers on Abdominal Section and demonstrate by operations on patients already secured.
The county judge and clerk and a number of the magistrates thought yesterday was the time for the court of levy, but Attorney J. B. Paxton looked up the new law and found that such courts are fixed to meet on the first Tuesday in April. Judge Varnon says that the tax rate will be reduced to 18 1/2 or 20 cents from 24 1/2.
The time for the payment of city taxes without the penalty expired Saturday and Collector Newland tells us that not one half the amount has been paid. We do not make this appeal for personal advantage, since our taxes have been paid, but in view of the very hard times, we think the council should extend the time for collection till May 1.
BLESSED ARE THE PEACEMAKERS.—Stanford went dry on last Monday by a majority of 24. The fight has been very intense. We honor Editor Walton for acting as the peacemaker in the struggle. His paper, the INTERIOR JOURNAL, did not take sides in the fight, but urged that a contest upon principle be made all along the line. The JOURNAL now insists that the law be absolutely obeyed.—Winchester Sun.
UNDER a misapprehension of the facts in the case, which have since been fully explained, we unintentionally did an injustice to an estimable young lady in an article with reference to the proposed boycott of a Stanford jeweler. The young lady was not responsible for the action of the ladies and if any over zeal was shown, it was by them and not her. It was learned that the gentleman in question was neutral on the subject and would not vote in the prohibition election. The ladies who were holding a prayer meeting at the church, thought that if he would accept an invitation to come to it, they might induce him to "come out on their side and the Lord's." The young lady was sent as one of the committee to invite him over. He refused to go and suggested that some of his whisky friends had threatened to withdraw their trade because he had signed the protest against license. He was informed that if policy and not principle governed his action, the temperance ladies might make a similar threat and carry it into execution. The committee returned to the church and the young lady made the report, the action there on being taken by the body in the regular way and for which she was no more responsible than any other person. The young lady says she has no apology to make to any one, but objects to having all the blame placed on her by those who wish to shield themselves. We disclaim any intention in any way to wound the feelings of the young lady by an invidious reference to her, and were governed only by a desire to bring an unpleasant matter to a peaceful issue.

A DANVILLE citizen, who is pretty fond of his "tea," said to an I. J. man, "I am mighty glad you to be in town dry." "I am surprised that you are, as you always seemed to enjoy it under the old way," was the reply, when the Danville man answered, "That's it. I never could go up there without getting full."

The Opera of "Katie Dean, the Rag Picker," which was given at Hustonville recently to a highly pleased audience, will be rendered at Walton's Opera House, next Saturday night. The members of the cast are all from Hustonville and our people will take pleasure in giving them an ovation. Admission 15, 25 and 35c. Reserved seats at McRoberts'.
The contest over the prohibition election in the Hustonville precinct has finally been decided upon and Robert Harding, P. M. McRoberts and perhaps others will represent the drys. A number of Hustonville men were down here yesterday and say they are determined to fight the matter to the bitter end. One of them told us that out of 56 white voters in town, 44 were for the straight out prohibition of the liquor traffic. Under this state of case it would seem that their wishes should be respected.

The NEW FURNITURE STORE
Spring time is here and the wave of prosperity about to sweep over the country is evidenced by the increased activity manifested in every branch of trade.
The prospects for money is growing better daily, and soon the war of competition will break out with renewed vigor, and with all the force but pleasing energy born of a state of inaction of many months' duration. The old adage, "In time of peace prepare for war," finds no time more favorable for application than the present. Preparations are now in order to meet the increased demand of a convalescent trade. In view of these pleasant anticipations, I have introduced some elaborate reforms into every branch of my large line of goods, changes have been made in price which almost equal a revolution.
Old styles have been superseded by new; the new have been replaced by the latest; and the latest have been pruned until the residue aptly illustrates, "the survival of the fittest," odd shapes and finishes have been especially sought after to please the irresistible craving for novelty; while only such of these have taken advantage of whose selling price is thoroughly in harmony with the spirit of the times and trade.
A glance through my stock will satisfy you that my selection is grand and my prices will thoroughly convince you that I am head quarters.
New ideas have been introduced into all the more important lines of furniture and they constitute a line of goods which, for beauty design variety, style and price, is superlative in an eminent degree, and which represent to perfection the high standard achieved under the influence of necessity, the mother of invention. In order to stimulate a sluggish and indifferent demand, I place before you the cream of all that is new. Strictly cash, this will be to your interest.
